NORFOLK SHERIFF'S OFFICE VISITS INDEPENDENCE MANOR

Norfolk County Michael G. Bellotti was pleased to have a representative from his office visit the residents at Independence Manor in Braintree recently.

"Since it first opened a number of years ago, Independence Manor has been an important place that allows seniors to maintain a high standard of living and good quality of life," Sheriff Bellotti said. "The administrators and residents there are so tuned in the special issues and challenges that come with aging. We feel privileged to be able to go to Independence Manor periodically and do our part to keep everyone feeling safe and well."

Norfolk Sheriff's Office Triad Director Joseph Canavan spoke to Independence Manor residents on Wednesday Oct. 25, informing them about the numerous free-of-charge programs Sheriff Bellotti runs for seniors.

"We work in cooperation with Mayor Joseph Sullivan, the Braintree police and fire departments and the council on aging," Sheriff Bellotti said. "Braintree is a well-run town, and it's not surprising that they provide top-notch programming for their senior citizens."
